

Stress Formula

In times of stress, the body uses more of certain nutrients, especially the B-complex family and vitamin C.

Because these nutrients are water-soluble, they are easily eliminated and must be replenished on a regular basis.

Stress Formula contains nervine herbs (hops, passion flower and valerian), that help support the nervous system while they promote relaxation.

The formula also contains schizandra, an adaptogenic herb.

Did you know?

Stress can either be acute or long-term. Long-term stress is particularly dangerous. A state of continual stress eventually wears out the body.

Because of its effect on immune response, stress increases susceptibility to illness and slows healing.
